How to Get the Job You Want Nov 24 2021 The job you want, the organisation you want to work for, and the fulfilment that this will offer you will be different for everyone. One of the things that I have seen repeatedly after coaching hundreds of people, interviewing hundreds of people, or mentoring, is that people who fail to plan, plan to fail. There are so many countless instances where I will agree to mentor or coach someone. During the initial consultation where we get to know each other, it becomes apparent to me that these individuals, regardless of their point of need or circumstances, are lacking structure, a plan, or guidance to help them rewire their thinking. Often, I find that these people have recognised that they are not happy in their job, are looking for their first job, or want to improve their financial and career prospects. Getting to this point is as important as the steps you need to take to get to your career's next phase. I repeatedly see the same approach that they have perhaps applied to get their current job or some basic steps, such as writing a simple resume being applied to their next job search. This approach is what I see quite frequently. It is no surprise that such approaches, which are not very considered, result in being rejected for the jobs you apply for or not even getting a response from employers after you have submitted your application. Frustration, losing self-confidence, and motivation in all areas start to see cracks. You start to question your ability and your skills. You might summon the motivation needed to keep going, hoping that the circumstances will be different. It's a numbers game, i.e., keep applying for countless jobs, hoping that one day you will get the big break you believe you deserve.

Banging your head against the wall about the job search? Wondering why nobody's even bothering to send you a rejection letter (much less an interview request)? You are not alone. This process is a beast, but there's good news: #EntryLevelBoss is the book for you. This is an easy-to-follow roadmap for transforming yourself from frustrated job seeker into hired, happy, productive human. One part behind-the-scenes memoir, one part playbook, #EntryLevelBoss lays out career coach Alexa Shoen's proven 9-step methodology for approaching the job search during these crazy times we're living through. Think of it like a fitness plan—except instead of killer abs, you wind up with multiple interviews for a bunch of jobs you actually want. Cool, right? This is not another manifesto about finding your passion. (I mean, yes, let's find your passion, sure, but the rent is also due and I would assume you're interested in getting paid.) This is a real plan that's based on the real rules of the game. You'll learn how to effectively identify your future hiring manager, for example, and slide into their DMs in the least creepy way possible. Alexa Shoen is the internet's leading confidant for panicking job seekers. She has guided thousands of people into full-time employment using these exact steps. Even if you're convinced you're the least hireable person on the planet, Alexa's got you covered.
